

Business partners

Improve your supply chain resiliency by assessing the risks and recovery capabilities of critical business partners in five days

Get it done

This service enables you to assess your most critical business partners and develop strategies to improve their resiliency. Members of our seasoned consulting team will join you onsite to facilitate an all-day, intensive workshop. Following the workshop, our consultants will spend a full day with each of the three business partners that were determined as most critical—assessing their resiliency and identifying areas for improvement.

A supply chain is only as strong as its weakest link. Don't let it catch you by surprise.

Here is what you get.

- One day intensive workshop focused on:
 - Supply chain resiliency
 - Understanding your risk environment
 - Identifying key supply chain business partners
- Assessment of three of your critical business partners
- Summary report with recommendations
- All presentations and scripts, templates, and activity materials

Results

An in-depth understanding of the risks and recovery capabilities of your critical business partners, and a path to improving your overall business resiliency.

All materials and presentations used in these workshops have been standardized for all engagements and industries. Customization is available for an additional cost.
