Build your program from the ground up in just 5 days

Your time commitment

Program sponsors (usually the risk management team or business continuity team) will be needed for all five days.

We also recommend including any competency owners from crisis management, facilities/emergency management, and supply for pertinent workshops held on select days.

Get it done

Five days! That's how fast we can get your BCM program set up for success. This service gives you all the basics of building resiliency for your company, from adoption and awareness to plan development and tabletop exercises. For one business week, members of our seasoned team come onsite to facilitate all-day, intensive workshops. And it's all delivered in a way that gives you the tools you need for rolling your program out to sites.

Here is what you get.

- Five days of intensive workshops focused on:
 - Program strategy, governance, and adoption
 - Incident/crisis management policy, plan development, and training
 - Emergency management policy, plan development, and training
 - Business continuity policy, plan development, and training
 - Business partner risk and supply chain resiliency
- All presentations and scripts, templates, and activity materials
- Virtual support through training webinars and BCM helpdesk
- One Masters of Disaster BCM board game
- One set of incident scenario Crisis Cards

Results

A foundation for resiliency, standardized materials for your team, and a consistent ISO 22301-aligned approach for implementing BCM across your company's sites.

All materials and presentations used in these workshops have been standardized for all engagements and industries. Customization is available for an additional cost.
